History of the Class of 1926

 $F_{\rm crowded}^{\rm OUR}$ years ago, one morning in September, the University was everything and at the same time trying to look as if they knew everything and at the same time trying to find out what it was all about. That was the beginning of four happy years crowded with hard work, it is true, but also filled with many a good time.

As a class we have witnessed some few important changes in the life of our Alma Mater. We saw Dean Patterson become Chancellor and realized fully what that meant to the University. Nowhere could one more fitted for this task have been found. A man with strength of character and with a keen insight into the affairs of our University was needed; and who has shown more strength of character and possessed keener insight than the man who dreamed this dream of a greater, more wonderful and better University for years, and who also worked unceasingly for its realization? His name will be permanently associated with the development of the greater University of Louisville.

At this time also Mr. Ford was made full-time president and was placed in charge of general administrative work. Here was needed a capable and far-seeing man and the choice made was wise, as can be seen from the prosperity and success of our school.

In the past four years the University has grown more and done more than at any time during its previous history. During our first three years a great deal of talk was heard of the new University, but it seemed a vague and uncertain something to be dreamed of only in relation to posterity. But in 1925 that dream became a reality. The new year began on the new campus. It seemed as if the Academic Department had grown overnight, and from occupying one building it spread until it occupied many. During these four years a new university has been created. Whereas four years ago the University boasted a high reputation in educational circles and in the scholastic world, it was little known to the great mass of people. Today it is widely known, not only in Louisville but all over the country and the world.

History of the Class of '26

THE candidates for graduation in the College of Dentistry this year have come from many and varied states. Four years of scholastic wor kin our college have been pleasing and gratifying to all of us. From a class of fifty-three freshmen, we have dwindled to thirty-three as graduates, three of which came from other schools.

The freshman year was passed most satisfactorily. Anatomy and chemistry, however, left their death stings, poisoning some few to the extent that they lacked the ambition to try another year.

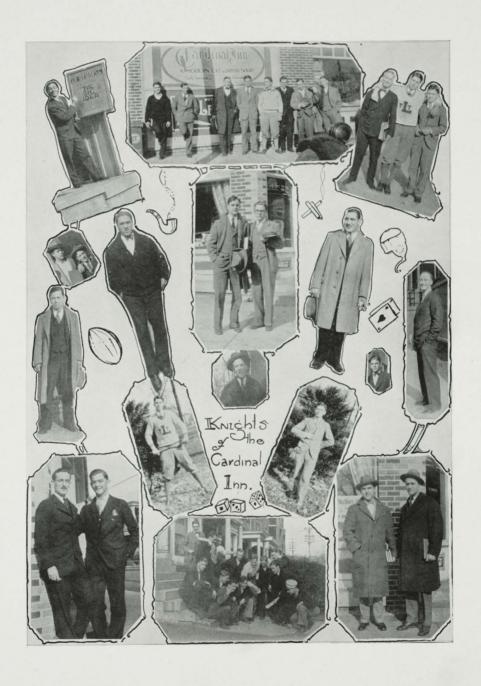

The sophomore year looked dark and gloomy both at the start and the finish. There were many trials and tribulations which made it very difficult for us to wade through but we managed to come out successfully.

The fall brought with it much gratitude. Every sophomore was admitted to the clinic where a study of dentistry in its true sense begins. It was at this time that the class of '26 was first introduced to the public as being far enough advanced in dental knowledge to offer professional service. What ego we possess, and how rapidly our self opinion increases with such an opportunity! By the end of the year we realize that we are only students.

Now the last year approaches. Lo! It is here. Work is now the one and only thing we do. June is fastly approaching and with it comes the question to the minds of many of us. Have we gained sufficient knowledge to render intelligent service to the public? This thought lingers with us to the end and it tends to make us more fit for the work which we will find in our paths when we go out in the world as professional men.

Work, study, and more work, and at last our goal is reached, that is to say, one of them. We are no longer students in the University but students in life.

History of the Class of 1926

SEPTEMBER 24, 1923, was an eventful day in the history of the School of Law of the University of Louisville. Our new building was thrown open for use for the first time, and the largest class in the history of the school passed through the portals to be known as the Class of '26.

Since that day time has wrought many changes in both the class and the school. True some of the enrolling members have been called to other fields of work, yet additional men have joined us. The class is not as large as it was in 1923 but the same high standards are still in evidence.

The Class of '26 has seen the Law School start on an era of prosperity only to be overtaken by adversity. In 1924 our beloved Dean, Judge Charles B. Seymour, was summoned by the Supreme Judge of all. For a time it seemed that the school would be irreparably harmed by such a blow, as Judge Seymour had been the guiding spirit in all endeavors. But there is a man for every emergency, and that man was found in Mr. Sinclair Daniel who became Secretary of the School of Law. 1925 was a difficult year for him and a hard year for the students, but "all is well that ends well". Then came 1926 and with it came Mr. Leon P. Lewis as Dean. Mr. Lewis, one of Louisville's greatest and most scholarly lawyers, has given the Law School the benefit of his prestige and his experience at Leland Stanford University. Working hand in hand, he and Mr. Daniel have made 1926 a truly momentous year.

Since the Class of '26 entered, notable changes have been made in the scholastic requirements for entrance. This class is the last one that will ever graduate without the requisite pre-legal work. We are glad to say that, notwithstanding the fact that the entrance requirements have been raised, the present Freshman Class has far surpassed us in number. But scholastic advances are not the only ones that have been made. The library of the School of Law has increased by leaps and bounds until now it is possible to find all Kentucky law, as well as many other reports, in that library. The location of the new building has been of immeasurable value to the school. Located as it is on Armory Place, it is within easy reach of all courts of record of Jefferson County. The legal atmosphere acquired by this advantageous situation has been a great benefit to the students. The Louisville Law Library, one of the finest in the world and containing every reported case in the English language, is within one block of the school. Thus the University School of Law has not only entered upon an era of lasting prosperity, but is beginning to rank as one of the foremost law schools in this part of the country.

Upon leaving the School of Law we are unable to claim the glory of accomplishing any outstanding feat. We have seen the school grow and we know that we have been instrumental in stimulating that growth. That self-satisfaction is sufficient. We have not attempted to discuss our class man for man, but rather wish to consider ourselves as one unit and that one unit a vital and integral part of the University. We want the University to miss us when we are gone, for we regard it as our mother (in law). We want to feel that we have given the school something that will last, for we know that the school has given us the knowledge and ideals to become respected members of the legal profession.

Louisville's young men who have desired thorough training in the Engineering Sciences have had to go away from home to get it, or have gone without. Much has been lost to the industrial progress of the city through the lack of opportunity for such training. The University has been put in position to supply this training by a generous gift.

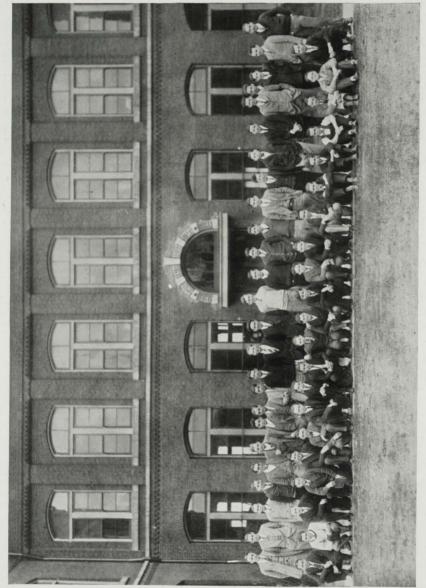

The Speed Scientific School was opened September, 1925. The school was established on the James Breckinridge Speed Foundation, created by Mr. William Speed and Mrs. Frederic M. Sackett, as a memorial to their father, James Breckinridge Speed. It is a separate school of the University and trains in the engineering sciences by a co-operative course extending over four full years—twelve months to the year, with time for a brief vacation.

The plan for instruction was adopted after a thorough study of the best engineering schools in the United States representing the different types of engineering education. The school offers Louisville boys a thorough training in the fundamental sciences and in the practice of civil, mechanical, electrical and chemical engineering. The school occupies two buildings on the campus.

HONORARY LITERARY FRATERNITY

Feeling that there was a need for an organization that would have for its purpose the stimulation of intellectual and literary activity on the campus of the University of Louisville, a group of upperclassmen formed a literary society which is named The Lantern.

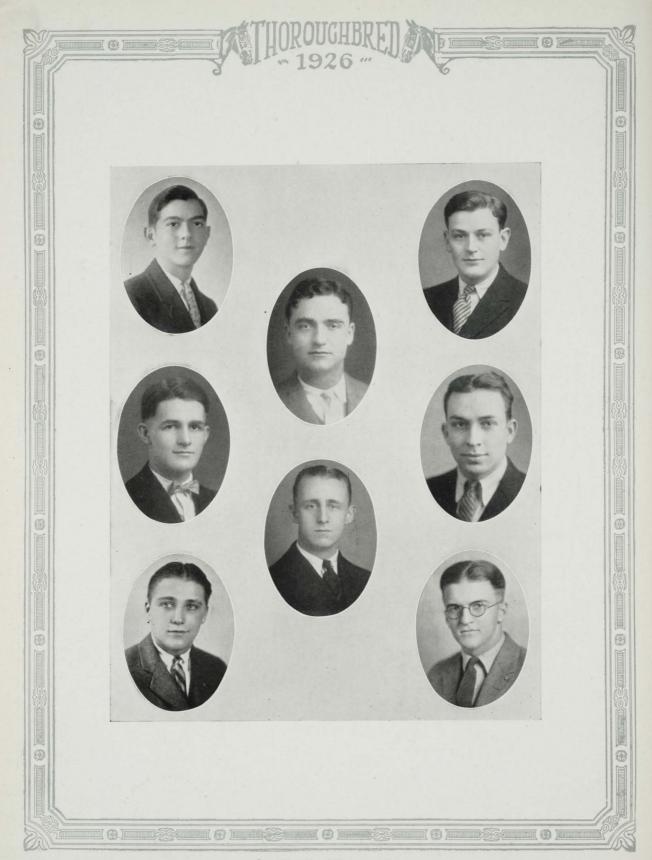

Twelve men compose this group. Ten of the members are juniors and seniors, and two are sophomores. There are two freshman associate members. Associate membership is open to anyone in Louisville who has literary talent or who is sincerely interested in intellectual activity.

The society has petitioned for membership in Sigma Upsilion, a national honorary fraternity.

In the fall of 1926, in collaboration with Chi Delta Phi, the women's honorary literary fraternity, a literary journal will be published.

The "Keys", an honorary sophomore fraternity, was installed at the University of Louisville on March 20th, 1926, by the Kentucky Alpha Chapter of Kentucky State University.

The criterion of this fraternity is integrity, scholarship, and active interest in college life. Its purpose is to set a standard of scholastic endeavor in the University, and to establish a friendly relationship between the different fraternities. It is, therefore, composed of the most outstanding men in the sophomore class.

The charter members of the Delta Chapter at the University of Louisville are:

J. R. Adams

R. J. BUCKMAN

Calling the prof from the history book To loll at ease in a tempting nook.

Whispering to us, "Please come sit And spin a yarn or gossip a bit."

Niews of the Alumni Club Rooms on the Campus Library Building

Where fireside bench and bridge lamp glow Make memories cling and worries go.

Rest and read, or laugh and sew Here's where the tired alumni go!

The Alumni Cfub

THE two and a half years of existence with which the Alumni Club is credited has been a period of substantial achievement. Its purpose in serving the University has been well begun, and with the interest and enthusiasm of the hundreds of former students who wish to help in some way to make their Alma Mater a bigger and better University, it hopes in the future to measure up to the responsibilities that come with added years, and to turn increasing power to more fruitful ends.

A number of activities, by reason of their success in the past, have come to be regarded as annual events—traditions in the life of alumni members. The bridge party in the fall, the banquet during the K. E. A., the moonlight during commencement week, New Year's open house in the Alumni rooms, the dinner in honor of the football team, and the part taken in the class day exercises—all are interesting high-lights in the social life of the Alumni and help to cement the bridge between graduation and the trails that lead to the professions. Other activities of the year have been the reception in the fall at the opening of the club rooms, the co-operation in the passage of the million dollar bond issue, a dinner and smoker in honor of the February graduates of the local high schools who were members of the football teams, and the reception to all June graduates of the local high schools.

The success of these projects is due in no small measure to the president of the organization, who has by his unswerving purpose and shining example inspired the officers to lofty efforts and led the members to great achievements. The officers for the year 1926 are:

HERBERT F. BOEHL, President.

ANNABEL HANKINS, First Vice-President.

MARCELLA COLL, Second Vice-President.

JACK HODGEN, Third Vice-President.

EVELYN SCHNEIDER, Corresponding Secretary.

CHRISTINE BOHON, Recording Secretary.

JOHN E. HELLER, Treasurer.

GRACE WATSON, Director, 3 years.

MRS. ARCH HERZER, Director, 2 years.

LEONARD C. BRECHER, Director, 1 year.

The Alumni Club is anxious to encourage, to establish, and generously to support every movement that will contribute to the welfare of the University. To assist in attaining that end, the new members, you, the graduating class of 1926, are invaluable. You have finished your studies, and the University is proud of you; you can now begin to show in a small measure your appreciation of your university. The Alumni Club is the medium through which you may remain in immediate contact with your Alma Mater and keep in touch with your friends and classmates. It is with pleasure that the Alumni Club looks forward to enroll as an active, interested member each graduate of the class of 1926.

THOROUGHBRED

Historical Society

W ITH the meeting of May 12, 1926, the University of Louisville Historical Society concluded the third year of its existence.

Since its birth in the autumn of 1923 the University of Louisville Historical Society has been consistently the largest club in the University, and has functioned so impressively as to attract the interest of kindred organizations throughout the State. This organization has been a successful experiment because a sincere interest has been stimulated in a large group entirely free from stiff formalism. During the past three years practically every historian in Kentucky has addressed the society and each year at least two trips, and sometimes three, have been made to points of historical interest.

And now the University of Louisville Historical Society is preparing to grow into an even more powerful influence for the stimulation of intellectual activity in Louisville. Before the end of the year, 1925-1926, the founders of the Society, Dr. Robert S. Cotterill, Dr. Louis R. Gottschalk, Retiring President, Samuel Hyman, and Charles P. Sutt, perfected plans for the re-organization of the Historical Society along lines that will be conducive to earnest historical research and creative work. The Society will have an inner circle composed of history majors and graduate students in the history department.

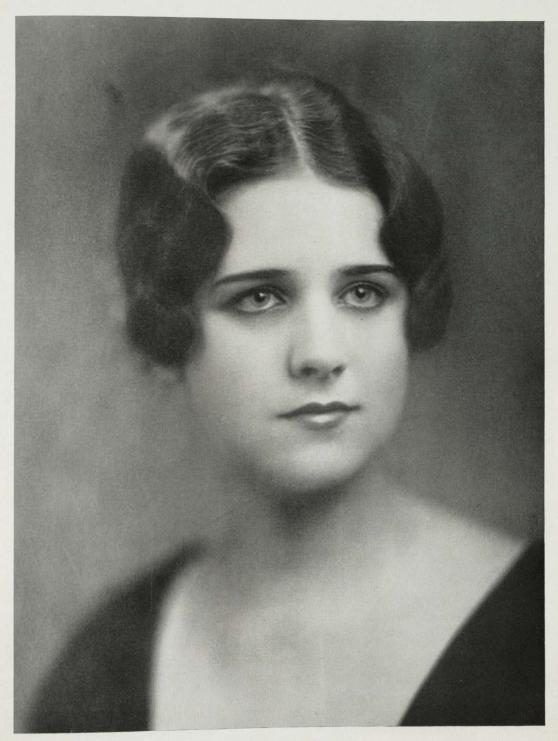

The year 1926-1927 will also witness the publication of a historical review. The officers for the past year and the newly elected officers are:

SAMUEL HYMAN President ELIZABETH NALL
ESTHER MASON. Vice-President EVELYN PEDIGO
FRANCES GOULD Secretary OLLIE MAY DABBS
ALLIE MAY DABBS Treasurer C. P. SUTT

The Dramatic Club

HE twelfth season of the University of Louisville Players was an epoch-making one. To begin with it opened in the fulfillment of that very beautiful and very rare thing—A Dream-Come-True. The dream was the new Playhouse on the new campus at Third and Shipp Streets. The University of Louisville Players carried with them the sweet tradition of the old Workshop to mingle with the atmosphere of a little church made into the best equipped Little Theater in the country. The stain-glass windows and the lovely rich brown stenciled curtain lend a serene, beautiful aspect to the front of the house while back-scenes a large stage, equipped with up-to-date dressing rooms, a two thousand dollar switchboard, a flygallery and other such things, make the Playhouse one of the most modern of its kind.

To start the first season in the new Playhouse Mr. Martin presented five widely different and yet uniformly wonderful plays. As usual none of the plays had ever been presented in Louisville before.

The first play was The Swan by Molnar. It was a very fascinating love story and a very lovely play. Virginia Edelen had the role of the princess, Embert Rice of the prince, and Paul Druin of the Tutor. The rest of the cast was composed of some of the best of the old Players and a few promising new ones.

The Big Idea, a play within a play, carried with it two unusual features—Ruth Wilson, a graduate player of many past triumphs, as the heroine and our director, Mr. Boyd Martin, in the cast—"just to show 'em he could learn lines' as well as direct plays with a great deal of ability and success. Leslie Hauger as the hero and other players of note made up the cast.

Dolly Reforming Herself was the third play. It was an English play of charming people and delicate, light humor. Nancy Norwood had the title role with Emile Pragoff as her husband, and Embert Rice as her father.

Then came the unusual play, Hell-Bent Fer Heaven, in which Mr. Martin and his players reached the heights. It achieved the most wonderful success. Ewing Beynroth as Rufe gave a superb performance and the whole cast played their parts with a fire that held the audience spell-bound. The others in the cast were Lael Tucker, the heroine, Frances Attkisson, Billy Keller, Clarence Judah, Bill Dennes, and Calvin Gray.

The last play was a delicate, whimsical little love story, The Shabby Paradise, written by Boyd Martin. Mr. Martin had presented some of his own plays in the old Workshop before, but this one perhaps, was the greatest success. Hugh Sutton, a faithful member of the University of Louisville Players in many capacities, and a very brilliant actor, gave his last performance as an undergraduate. Mary McClure played opposite him with all her delicate charm. It was a very lovely play to end up an unusually successful season.

Something must be said about the original one-act plays presented at each Saturday meeting of the second term. They were written, acted, directed, and produced by Mr. Martin's English 50 Class of dramatic technique and they afforded a good deal of pleasure and entertainment.

Toward the last of the year a new constitution was drawn up embodying all the old traditions and unwritten laws, thus giving the University of Louisville Players Club a very concrete foundation.

It is hoped and sincerely believed that the University of Louisville Players will continue into a brilliant future and the Playhouse will see even greater seasons yet to come.

The advent of Tom King as director and coach of athletics at the University of Louisville marked a turning point in the history of collegiate athletics in Louisville. He has aroused and instilled in the Cardinal teams the fighting spirit. King is not only a great coach who is giving us winning athletic teams, but is a man with a personality—a man for whom the University of Louisville athletes love to fight.

Football

ARMAND FISCHER, Captain

THE greatest football season the University of Louisville has ever enjoyed inaugurated the greatest athletic year of the oldest municipal University in the United States. With Coach Tom King at the helm, a young Cardinal gridiron machine swept its way through a season of eight victories and no defeats. And not only did the Cardinals go undefeated, but they maintained an uncrossed goal line, an eloquent testimonial to the defensive greatness and the fighting spirit of the King men.

The Cardinal conquests on the gridiron were significant not only because of the victories in themselves and the impressive manner in which they were achieved, but also because they contributed materially to the creation of Louisville tradition and to the winning of the vote of approval for the one million dollar bond issue for the University of Louisville.

In eight games the Cardinals scored a total of one hundred and thirty-four points. A satire of circumstance gave Marshall College a safety and two points in the last game of the season. Displaying amazing offensive power in the last quarter, the Cardinals opened the season with a 20-0 defeat of Evansville—Marks scoring two touchdowns and Mayhall adding the third. Ford and Williams drop-kicked for extra points. At Bowling Green on the following Saturday Captain Fischer's men conquered Western State Normal by 6-0 after fifty-four minutes of fierce struggle had not produced a score.

Although sustaining a loss of one hundred and thirty-five yards because of penalties the King men splashed their way to a 24-0 victory over Hanover College at Hanover, Indiana. Daugherty, Miller, Marks, Mayhall, and Ford were the big cogs in the scoring.

And then came October 24, Louisville Day, with all its color and high excitement, with its rallies and parades, Freshman-Sophomore fights, and a climax that ended the day with a bang. Four times during the afternoon the Cardinals had knocked at Kentucky Wesleyan's goal and four times they had been checked through one mishap or another. And then, with the ball on the Wesleyan 25-yard line and five seconds of play remaining, Jim Blackerby faked a buck and passed to Poachy Marks, who crossed the line just as the whistle blew.

Transylvania was beaten on a snow-lined gridiron at Lexington by 7-0. Jack Daugherty made the score when he blocked a punt, grabbed the ball, and ran twenty yards for the touchdown. When the whistle ending the game sounded the Cardinals were on the Transy one-foot line.

With Williams and Marks carrying the brunt of the offensive work, the Cardinals whipped a traditional rival, Rose-Poly Tech by 30-0.

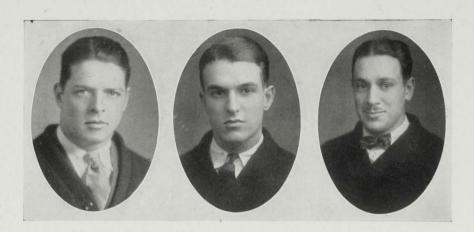

Freshman Day was celebrated with a 34-0 defeat of Toledo University.

Marshall College succumbed to the Cardinal attack at Huntington on Thanksgiving Day, the score being 7-2. The triumph was the first ever scored by a Louisville team on a Marshall gridiron.

Five University of Louisville men won places on the mythical all-State eleven, namely, Captain-elect Daugherty, Pop Arnold, Jim Tom Robertson, Harvey Mayhall, and Poachy Marks. Daugherty was named on the all-Southern. The glorious 1925 season was the last for Captain Fischer whose fine spirit has been an inspiration to every Cardinal athlete.

The men who received letters were Fischer, Daugherty, Arnold, Gentile, Robertson, Sims, Kielkopf, Miller, Blackerby, Koster, Corso, Marks, Williams, Ford, Espie, Starks, Mayhall, Moran, Jones, Fuizotte, and Barnett.

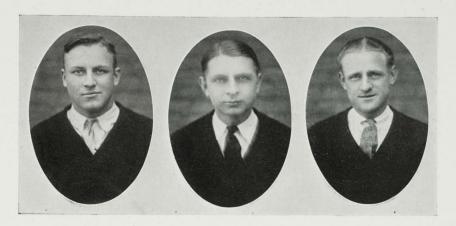

Not a line that faced the conquering Cardinals could stop the plunges of Harvey Mayhall who won all-State fullback honors. He was one of King's greatest ground-gainers, and will be seen in action next season.

Captain Armand Fischer's splendid spirit throughout the season won the co-operation of every Cardinal gridder. Fischer is one of our fleetest halfbacks and we will miss him greatly next season.

Gentile is an athlete with the true fighting heart. "Gent's" season was slightly marred by a leg injury, but that did not prevent his being a terror in that famous Cardinal forward wall.

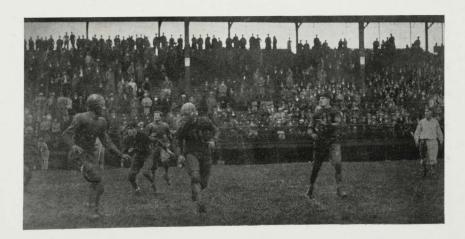

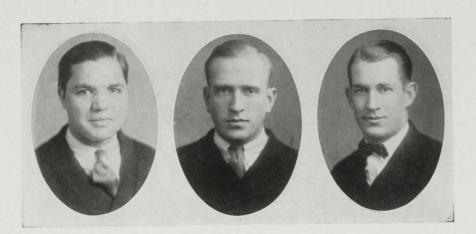

Robertson did not receive a medal for his taciturnity while in action on the football field, but he did get the call for the center berth on the all-state eleven. Jim Tom is one of the best centers Kentucky has ever produced, and one of the surest tacklers.

Vying for quarterback honors with Blackerby was Marshall Espie who can run, pass, and kick. Espie has three more years of football at the University.

Greased Lightning! That describes Tom Ford, the speediest man on the team, and an excellent drop-kicker. When Tom once gets under way the opposition never sees him. Even his interference can't keep up with him.

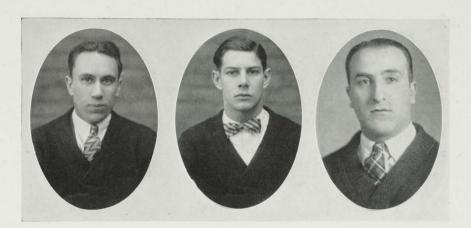

One of the hardest fighting men wearing Cardinal and Black colors for the past four years was "Fuzzy" Fuizotte, whose five feet, six inches is packed with sheer grit and endurance. In all his endeavors "Fuzzy" won the admiration of all.

Moran is a real tackle, the kind that fires an entire line with confidence. Time and again Moran broke through to spoil enemy plays in their incipiency.

Moran's buddie, Jones, is another sterling lineman, one that any coach would be proud to have. The amount of ground gained through Jones' guard was almost infinitesimal.

Jockeying with Daugherty for wingman honors was "Chief" Uncas Miller, who guarded one of the terminals with the zest and determination with which he sallied forth to conquer his opponents. "Uncas" is one of our best and most popular athletes.

Koster, one of the State's greatest punters, passers, and open field runners, and the best all-round athlete now attending the University of Louisville. He will be a senior next year and expects to enjoy his greatest football year.

Mart Carso, one of the most dependable fullbacks in Kentucky, ended a glorious athletic career with the close of the 1925 season. Marty's dynamic line plunging will be missed.

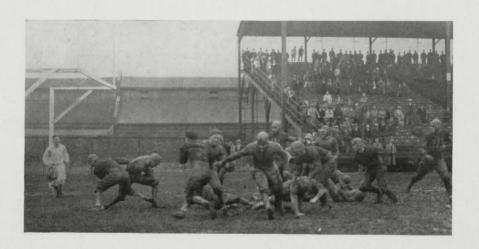

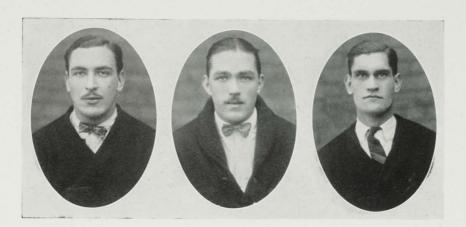

"Bruiser" Starks is King's most colorful and fierce lineman. Ask any Hanover lineman, if you don't believe it.

Williams is one of the fleetest and most promising half-backs on Tom King's squad. He has three seasons to go. In addition to being a speedy ball-carrier, Williams is a fine drop-kicker.

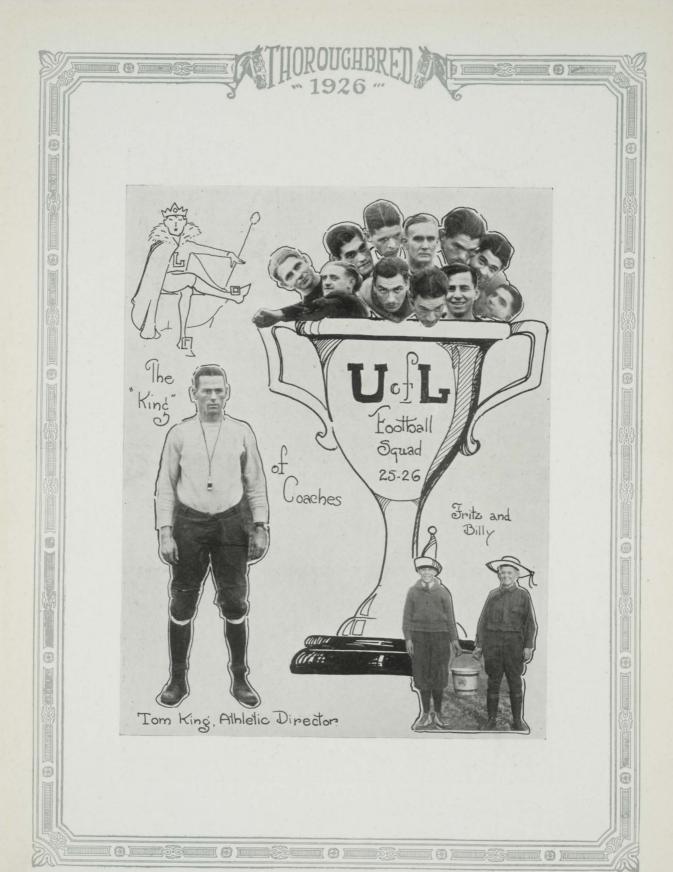

Pop Arnold, all-State tackle, 210 pounds of honest-to-goodness man. Arnold was a tower of strength for the Cardinals both on attack and defense. On attack he seldom failed to open a hole when called upon, and on defense he was impregnable.

Jack Daugherty, captain-elect of the Cardinals, all-State and all-Southern end. Daugherty's work at end and his forward passing and receiving were sensational.

"Shorty" is long on football ability and he has the fighting heart. One veteran sports writer in Louisville characterized Barnett as one of the best offensive centers he had ever witnessed in action on a Kentucky gridiron.

1925-1926 GIRL'S BASKET BALL TEAM

Girls' Basketball

UNDER the capable directorship of Charles Shontz, the University of Louisville co-eds ran a close second for the intercollegiate girls' basketball championship of the State. With practically the entire team back again next season, the Cardinal co-eds should be able to add another title to the 1914 and 1922 crowns.

Coach Shontz' team caused no inconsiderable stir when the Cardinal co-eds defeated Georgetown College by 23-21. For the most part, the Georgetown five was composed of members of the famous 1925 Georgetown High School team, which was ranked as one of the best girl teams in the country.

Led by Captain Mildred Franz, one of Kentucky's best guards, the Cardinal co-eds always presented a fighting squad to the opposing team. Mary Belle McCallum, Esther Ritter, and Margaret Ford were splendid scorers and floor girls; the defensive work of Captain Franz, Verna Buyer, Olivia Pragoff, and Florence Scheirich was excellent.

Basketball

A SEASON that began with high promise of the most successful basketball season in the history of the University of Louisville took an unexpected turn and ended in disappointment.

With the splendid 1925 quintet intact at the beginning of the 1926 season, the Cardinals looked for a State championship. Pre-season expectations were realized in the first game, but blind Chance metamorphosed the first blaze of glory into a wraith of thin smoke. First, Lynn Miller, pivot man, was lost because of ineligibility, and Coach King had to reorganize his team in mid-season. Then Fred Koster and Eddie Weber, the forwards, were injured, and another rebuilding became necessary. Throughout the season Captain John Gentile suffered with a bad knee which he had sustained in football, the result being that his appearance in the lineup was rare. Despite all of these misfortunes Coach King produced a quintet that made a fair record.

Those awarded letters were Fred Koster, Jim Blackerby, Poachy Marks, Ed Craddock, John Moriarity, and Eddie Weber.

The season's record:

Baseball

HE University of Louisville has a habit of producing victorious baseball teams, and the 1926 season did not prove an exception to the habit. Coach Tom King gave to the University a team which won a fair claim to the Kentucky intercollegiate baseball title.

The team won thirteen consecutive victories, some of the triumphs being over Saint X. of Cincinnati and Western State Normal, two crack nines. Only two games were lost, Western Normal conquering the Cardinals in the last two games of the season at Bowling Green.

Coach King's nine was formidable both offensively and defensively. With practically every man back next season, the University of Louisville should have the greatest baseball aggregation in its history.

The men who gave the University of Louisville a championship baseball team are Captain Clark Baily, Clark Pergrem, Hans Wagner, Kelley, Robertson, Nashand, Roth, Koster, Espie, Fleischer, Talamini, Waters, Hartfield, Daugherty, and Jack Gable, student manager.

Track

RACK athletics in the University of Louisville this season was confined to indoor running. With a wealth of freshman material now in school, and with an influx of new material expected next year, the Cardinals should enjoy a highly successful track season.

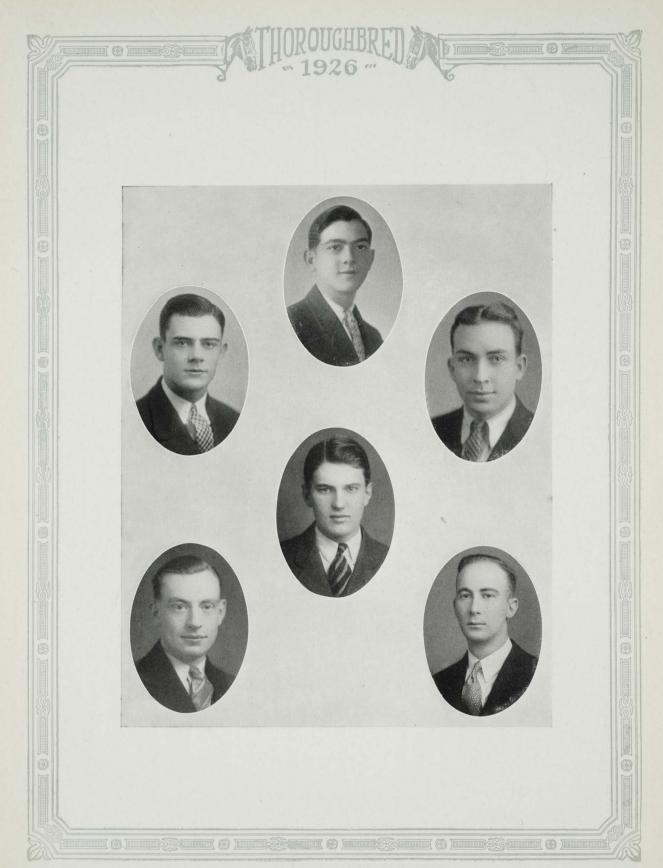

Running against some of the best clubs in the country, Tom King's athletes finished high in the point-making at the Cincinnati indoor meet. The Cardinal relay team, composed of Captain "Mose" Leonard, Charley Williams, Uncas Miller, and Sam Steinfeld, barely lost first place to the Cincinnati Y. M. C. A. Tom Ford tied for honors in the 220-yard dash.

King's men made a very impressive showing at the Kentucky Amateur Athletic Association carnival at the Armory on March 13. The Cardinal runners won the Kentucky-Indiana and collegiate sections, and finished well up in the open section.

Captain Leonard and Uncas Miller distinguished themselves in the 440-yard dash. Tom Ford starred in the dashes. Charley Williams won the 100-yard run. Dick Taylor ran second in the miler. Koster won honors in the hurdles. Mayhall and Hosch won first and second places respectively in the hurdles. The Cardinals ran second in the open relay, and won the college relay with ease.

The 1926 season was the last for the three letter men: Leonard, State champion quarter-mile; Kemp, distance and cross-country star; and Sam Hyman, founder of cross-country and track in the University of Louisville.

Billy Keller made an excellent and energetic student manager.

TACTICS

When next we meet I shall not talk, Sing to you songs, cold as blue skies-I shall press kisses on your lips And eyes.

I shall not tell you of my love For words have failed me twice, Words, though they pour like rain, Never melt ice. My arms shall talk to you My lips shall woo you-

You don't care much for songs,

Honestly do you?
